Record Airlift In July

—Up 68 Per Cent

With an average of 800 passengers leaving Patricia Bay Airport each day during July local T.C.A. have established a record which may stand for some years yet.

The biggest day in the history of the island airport was Friday, July 18, when the Black Ball Ferries went out on strike. A total of 1,340 passengers departed from Patricia Bay on that day, when all six DC3's were in use and augmented by North Stars and four Viscounts. The figures available are for departures only. In most cases the corresponding figures for arrivals at the airport are approximately the same.

The July total exceeded 50,000 passengers. Those passing out to the mainland numbered 26,320, of which 25,166 were passengers originating at Patricia Bay.

In July, 1957, a total of 14,968 passengers left the airport.

This year's figures represent an increase over the same month of last year of 68.1 per cent.

MARINE PROPERTY APPEAL IS REFUSED BY BOARD

Rezoning of property at Randle's Landing, Swartz Bay Road, has been rejected by the North Saanich Regulated Area. Operators of the marine base sought a commercial zoning for part of the property prior to seeking foreshore rights in connection with the marine use of the land.

Last week, after considering a very heated public hearing, the zoning board of appeal ruled that the application would be refused. Grounds chosen bore no direct relation to the various pleas offered by opponents. The members of the board were cautious about the channel remaining for the use of shipping in the bay. There was a question as to whether development of the section of property under discussion might not reduce available area on the water to a point where it was no longer adequate.

"After a public hearing," came the

BRUSH FIRE

Grass fire on Tuesday afternoon at the Roberts Bay home of C. M. Lang occasioned little damage and was extinguished without incident. Cause was attributed by Fire Chief G. A. Gardner to the location of an incinerator too close to dry grass and brush.

Heavy Traffic At Sidney Customs Port During July

Traffic through the port of Sidney during the month of July showed an increase of approximately 50 per cent over the previous year, reports Sidney customs superintendent, R. C. Steele.

This increase was in considerable part supported by the C.P.R. ferry strike and its sequel, the Black Ball strike.

The emergency tourist service in Sidney during the week-end of July 18 saw the figures rise considerably. Hundreds of cars and thousands of passengers passed through in the North Saanich Regulated Area was established nearly a decade ago to provide standards and regulations governing new structures and alterations to buildings in the district. The same control also called for strict segregation of areas used for different basic purposes, categorizing sections of the district into

Fire Patrol Is Organized By Residents

A round-the-clock road and fire patrol to watch for any further outbreaks of fire in the North Saanich area has been instituted by the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association, in agreement with Fire Chief G. A. Gardner of the Sidney Volunteer Fire Department.

The association is also advising residents of the district as to how to properly report a blaze.

If any outbreak of fire is observed, the telephone exchange should be notified immediately, with the exact location given. The information should be given calmly, together with the answers to any questions which the operator may ask. Proper reporting of a fire is necessary in order that proper instructions may be given to the fire department, the association says.

Director

Frank Butler, McTavish Road, has for the second successive year been named a director of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, which opens at Toronto on November 14. Mr. Butler, who has for several years been secretary of the B.C. Seed Growers' Association, is the first B.C. man ever to have been elected to the eastern board.

Montague Is Still On Galiano

Possibility that shifted location of some Gulf Islands points is responsible for late delivery of The Review is suggested by a correspondent in the islands.

The correspondent sent a clipping from another newspaper which placed Montague Harbor on Salt Spring Island.

"I was at Montague Harbor the other Monday," he wrote. "It was then on Galiano, but maybe this is the reason some of your subscribers get the paper late—it keeps shifting places."

Subdivision At Brentwood In 20 Lots

By G. L. BEARDSLEY

Growth of Brentwood, already proceeding at a fast pace, should take a big step forward with the opening of the Brentwood Subdivision, half way up the Verdier Ave. hill, and extending through to Stelly's Crossroad.

The 6.61 acre tract, known to long-time Brentwood residents as "the Tommy Peden property", has been divided into 20 lots of two different sizes: 75 by 140 feet, and 75 by 225 feet. The subdivision will be traversed by Brentwood Road, now under construction by R. Oldfield. A property restriction specifies that the main floor of each house built must contain at least 1,000 square feet.

Guy O. Swartz, of Royal Oak, is developing the subdivision. He plans to reserve one lot for his own home. Remembering his new address should be no problem to Mr. Swartz, for he comes from Brentwood, a suburb of Los Angeles.

RUNWAY PLANS READY

—But No Road

Plans for the extension of runways at Patricia Bay Airport have been prepared. Two runways are to be lengthened, the one to extend eastward towards Sidney Village beyond the present visual landing system, and the other to run further northeast to finish up at the junction of Mills Road and Patricia Bay Highway.

A map showing the plans has been prepared by the department of transport. The details of the road which will be directed around the airport when the present highway is bisected have not yet been completed.

On Tuesday evening Dr. C. H. Hemmings reported to Sidney village council that he had been in communication with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi last week. The minister had then advised him that he had received no official notification from the federal government regarding the future of the road. Mr. Gagliardi then despatched a wire to Ottawa expressing his preparedness to assist in every way when he is notified of the plans envisaged.

PROBATION FOR JUVENILES

A juvenile was placed on probation for three months on Tuesday when he appeared before Magistrate F. J. Baker on a charge of consuming liquor on licensed premises. He was also ordered to pay costs of $5.

A second juvenile appeared on a charge of stealing from boats at Shoal Harbor. He was put on probation for one year. A second juvenile appearing on the same charge was remanded.

Radio Took Him Around World, Won Him Recognition During War

Tom Dineen has spent an already eventful life in radio and electronics. The die was cast when he left Coventry in his native England in 1933 to establish himself in the Far East. Since that time he has been associated with two large international radio and electrical firms prior to arriving in British Columbia to open his own business in Sidney.

Proprietor of the Dineen Electronics Company, he looks back on a career which is as creditable to him as it has been varied.

In 1933 the young technician with General Electric Company left the shores of England to assume his new duties in Singapore. Within a few years he was manager of the radio and communications department of the General Electric Company in Kuala Lumpur. Within a few years more he was the inmate of a Japanese concentration camp, devoting his every energy to the furtherance of his chosen field of science.

When the Japanese took Singapore, they also took Sgt. T. A. Dineen of the local volunteer force. Mrs. Dineen, accompanied by her small daughter, had already left for England.

Victoria city is like the Continent of Africa in one respect . . . it is unknown. The Review carried out an investigation of the city's geography and discovered that it has none.

Recently there was considerable interest in the city when a new bridge was opened to traffic to take the place of the old Point Ellice Bridge, itself a successor to the ill-fated bridge which capsize at the turn of the century to jettison a street car into the water beneath.

None of the announcements regarding the new bridge gave any indication of its location. This week a Sidney resident, enquired of a Review man, where was Point Ellice Bridge? The subject of the enquiry was startled at the question and jumped to explain. He then wondered how many more were as well informed.

Of the first eight people, in Sidney, who were asked the same question, one knew that Esquimalt lay beyond the bridge and "thought it was near Government St."; another

Sgt. Dineen made a collection through the camp of anything remotely usable for radio purposes. Within months he had constructed a radio receiver contained in a mess tin. The Dineen radio station became the source of Allied news throughout the Blakan Mati POW camp. It was named the "Dover Box" by the Australian prisoners in the camp.

CHAMBER TO SEEK MORE PROTECTION?

The executive of Galiano Chamber of Commerce met last week at the home of H. Baines, North Galiano. Vice-president Les Hyde was in the chair.

Topics under discussion were appointment of a resident policeman for the island; the difficulties of rural mail delivery and the provision of a toll phone for the government wharf and relay connection from the switchboard to activate the fire siren.

By the establishment of a new local area, the basic regulations . . . Continued on Page Two

Arson Is Blamed For Heavy Outbreak of Fires In Area

—At Least One Certain Case

Six Fires In Same Pattern

FIRE CHIEF G. A. GARDNER

Combination of tinder dry brush and a potential fire-happy crank in the district has the fire department and the forestry branch on its toes in the North Saanich area. A series of fires which plagued the fire departments of two districts over the week-end is being closely investigated for incendiary.

Fire Chief G. A. Gardner, speaking of the suspicion of arson, asserted that one fire at least was positively set and was not attributable to any spontaneous cause or carelessness.

He referred to a second fire which broke out on Wains Crossroad in the vicinity of the Marshall Turkey Farm already controlled and at that time patrolled.

The series of fires in the district bore the same signs of apparent carelessness, whose similarity led to the original suspicion of incendiary.

FIRE PATROL

The investigation is under way at the present time and residents of the district have inaugurated a 24-hour fire patrol in order to check further outbreaks.

The fire chief commented that the series of fires was the worst since the Second World War when aircraft crashes regularly brought the fire department to combat extensive and varied outbreaks of fire.

Listing the series of fires over the week-end, Mr. Gardner stated that only one fire failed to fall into the pattern. That was the fire at Bradley Dyne Beach. Of all outbreaks in North Saanich and one in Central Saanich, it was the only one which appeared to be completely spontaneous, he remarked.

Cooler Weather Brings More Fish To Bay Anglers

By GINNIE BEARDSLEY

Cooler weather brought better fishing to Brentwood Bay area during the past week. It brought, the year's biggest fish, a 30-pound 10-ounce spring to Marcel Boutin of Carey Road, last Thursday night, and a 10-pound 14-ounce coho (believed to be the biggest of its breed so far caught in the bay for the year) to Dr. H. C. Carson.

The elite of the fishing fraternity, and tourist-winning Victoria-Saanich Anglers who form the Chinook Club, found the wind a bit of a deterrent Sunday afternoon. The result was a winner barely over button size: 20 pounds, five ounces for Tony Rosin.

For the rest of the week, fishing was consistently good, both morning and evening, around Willis Point, Ricky's Roost, and McCurdy's Point. Indian Bay was good in the evening. Pay-off tackle included Tom Mace, Mac's Squid, Lucky Louie, and strip of the smaller sizes. Best catches were made at around 900-foot depth.

Local anglers who reported success included: Miss Mary Gilling of Grise Lane, who hooked an 18-lb spring on the third trip of her life; Ted Phillips of Brentwood, O. Best; and 4794 West Saanich, week-

Fire Breaks Out In All Parts of Area at Week-end

—Big Problem To Firemen

Watch was still being maintained on Tuesday over a bush fire which broke out on Saturday afternoon on Wains Cross Road, Deep Cove. The fire spread over two acres before it could be brought under control. It was the most extensive of a series of fires extending from Keating to Deep Cove over the week-end.

Call was sounded at 2.50 p.m. on Saturday. By three o'clock the call was sent out for help from Central Saanich. Six trucks attended the blaze, although one was promptly sent back to Saanichton to stand guard.

With a gusty wind and tinder dry conditions, the fire was in the balance for an hour or so, stated Fire Chief G. A. Gardner later.

"It was two acres of fire and 20 of smoke," he added.

The forestry crews at Langford were called out when watchers at Duncan reported the column of smoke rising to the sky.

Before midnight there had been a further outbreak at the same scene, a new outbreak had occurred a few hundred yards away, two more fires were reported in the general Deep Cove area, another at Bradley Dyne beach, yet another on West Saanich Road at McPhail Road and a false alarm was given of a fire on Cresswell Road.

New Pastor To Arrive August 15

New Anglican minister for the parish of South Saanich has been appointed. He is the Rev. O. L. Foster, who will come here from the diocese of Calgary. Mr. Foster will arrive on the island on August 15 to assume his new duties.

The appointment marks the first permanent appointment to the parish since the retirement of Rev. Dr. E. H. Lee several months ago.

The new pastor will take his first services here on Sunday, Aug. 17 at both St. Stephen's and St. Mary's.

Impasse In School Purchases As No Representative Named

Representatives of Saanich School District did not appear at the meeting of Sidney village council on Tuesday evening.

School Board Chairman J. D. Helps had already advised the village that there was little advantage in pressing the case at this time. In view of the fact that the board had twice attended meetings of Central Saanich council to no avail their hands were now tied. He had explained, stated Chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings, that even with the approval of the village, the program could not go through until all municipalities agreed.

Earlier, the village had refused to approve capital expenditure by the school district without further explanation from the school trustees. The expenditure of nearly $30,000 referred to portable classrooms and equipment. Under the new School Act prior consent must be obtained from councils within the district before expenditures can be made.

Central Saanich council opposed the expenditure on principal, asserting that such provision under the act is undesirable. It shunts the responsibility on to the municipalities, it was felt.

BOARD NAMED TO NEW PARK AT DEEP COVE

Board of directors has been appointed to the Wains Road Park at Deep Cove by Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

Chairman of the board is Les Thornley and his executive includes L. G. Hillis, William Laird, H. North and J. B. Cumming. The last mentioned will serve as secretary.

The park is the new centennial project in Deep Cove and lies between Wains Crossroad and Birch Road.

A special public meeting has been called by the new chairman, Mr. Thornley, for August 14, in St. John's hall, when the future plans for the park will be discussed.

OUT OF THE MIXING BOWL

Everyone Loves a Parade

By MURIEL D. WILSON

This past week in Victoria beds have been left unmade, dishes left unwashed and dust on furniture left undisturbed . . . all because of a royal Princess in our midst. As a magnet attracts metal, Margaret, our beautiful princess, drew housewives and children from homes and business people from offices. Excitement and "I Love a Parade" atmosphere pervaded the city. Crowds, like waving ribbons of color, filled the sidewalks. Smiles softened the faces of stalwart policemen occupying almost every street corner. Handsome red coated "Mounties" heightened the carnival scene of flags, bunting and colorful flower baskets.

Parade spectators are a cross section of human interest hard to beat . . . the stout woman in a loud polka dotted dress ploughing through the crowd as relentlessly as a battleship; the woman in the back row holding a funny little dog high in her arms so that it could see over the heads of the people in front; the chubby little girl in a very short and frilly pink dress wearing an outsize white cowboy hat; the very small man looking for a spot to set up his six foot step-ladder.

I wished for a camera in my hand to capture the incongruous picture of one sleepy little four-year-old sitting on the curb on the opposite side of the street to where I was standing . . . around his waist he wore one of those elaborate leather belts holding two realistic and very large guns . . . this young desperado was diligently sucking his thumb.

EXCITING MARCH

I am a push over for parades and my prize goes to the "Three Navy" parade staged the day before the arrival of the Princess . . . what is it about marching men and a band that excites you and at the same time brings a lump to your throat? You want to cheer . . . you want

Two Stories Are Set In Africa At Gem This Week

Documentary story of the African lion will be shown at the Gem Theatre, in Sidney, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Produced by Walt Disney, "The African Lion" is the result of several years of patient exploration while the scene developed with the growth of the stars, a family of lions.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the American Army's cartoon soldier will come to the screen under the title, "The Sad Sack". Jerry Lewis plays the unfortunate soldier who cannot fit in. The African scene remains with the story, which is set in an army base in North Africa.

Co-starring are David Wayne, Phyllis Kirk and Peter Lorre.

to cry. Perhaps I am prejudiced because of my Navy son but for me no other service quite equals the precision marching, the stirring music, the smart attire and the proud swing of arms that is displayed by the boys in blue. In this all-Navy parade it was hard to single out any separate unit for special praise . . . the sturdy British tars; with their heavily medaled officers; the showy United States Marines with accompanying band; the youthful black striped midshipmen with navy a decorated led by gold braided officers with medals three deep. Perhaps we did applaud a little louder when our own Naden boys and Venture cadets marched past. The synchronized pounding of their booted feet stirred up emotions of deep pride together with the hope that this cream of young manhood will never be offered on the altar of war.

A CAT AND A KING

The old saying that "a cat may look at a king" may have prompted one gentleman to bring his cat down to the Parliament Building grounds to see the Princess. Yes he did. He brought the cat in a canvas traveling bag zipped across the top. He unzipped the bag and out stepped pussy cat wearing a fine red velvet collar attached to a lead. That lucky cat will no doubt be telling his grandchildren kittens about the beautiful Princess with the dazzling smile and the pansy-blue eyes.

Strange sights were seen on that sunny summer morning . . . a tree overlooking the drive leading to the Parliament buildings, which had never grown anything more unusual than green leaves was seen to have sprouted strange fruit . . . clinging to its branches like apples on a tree was a tremendously heavy crop of little boys and one blue-jeaned little girl with long curls. They were all set to have a bird's eye view of the Princess. I suppose it was the squirming and twittering of the children that betrayed their presence to the Princess. As the sleek open car passed beneath the big tree she raised her eyes heavenward . . . a smile and the raising of her hand must have been ample reward for the ingenuity displayed by these enterprising children in selecting such a fine vantage point.

SPECIAL OCCASION

I have my own special moment to treasure. Although we saw Her Royal Highness on several occasions my best view was when her car took a wide turn at a corner and came within a foot of where I was standing. It was my lucky day . . . just as the car came close the Princess turned her head my way and I found myself looking directly into her smiling blue eyes. This moment will I cherish because her smile, in that fleeting instant, seemed just for me.

SEQUEL TO QUARREL IS EXPENSIVE

Row with his girl friend proved expensive to David Michael Nunn, Sidney, last week. The 19-year-old boy smeared the mail box outside his girl-friend's home with paint and left a defiant message within it.

On Friday his defiance met with official condemnation. The disaffected swain was fined a total of $75 and costs for his efforts, when he appeared before Magistrate F. J. Baker in Sidney R.C.M.P. court.

Three drivers appeared on a charge of careless driving. Fined $25 and costs were Wilbert Bryant, Jeeves, 1504 McMoran, Victoria, and Cameron Leigh Dawdy, Vancouver. Alexander M. Hinton paid a fine of $35 on the same charge with an additional $25 for lack of a driver's license.

MODERN ETIQUETTE

Q. I recently applied for employment and gave three references requested. Someone has told me since that this was a rude thing to do without first asking permission to use those names. Is that correct?

A. Graciously, you should ask permission first. But if time does not allow this, you should inform those persons that you took the liberty of using their names as reference.

Q. Should the candles on the dinner table be lighted after the guests have seated themselves?

A. No; they should be lighted immediately before dinner is announced.

MORE ABOUT NO CHANGE

within the district are no longer inflexible. Changes may then be made as they could be made in the past under the present regulated area.

The local area also extends its scope beyond the earlier legislation. Such matters as garbage collection and other services may be established under the terms of such an area rather than by any arbitrary decision of the provincial government and its ministers. Beyond the question of zoning or planning the local area embraces the powers in certain instances normally vested in the council of a municipal area. This power is vested in the minister of municipal affairs and may be exerted to provide a number of other services in a community in addition to the garbage collection service.

The act lists comfort stations, home nursing care, ambulance service, fire protection, assistance towards the establishment of homes for senior citizens, regulation of store hours and all matters pertaining to zoning.

NEAR AUTHORITY

Such a district as is envisaged by the act provides for a state approaching local autonomy but with the administration of expenditures and revenue still remaining in the hands of the provincial government.

The act also provides for the collection of the costs of administration of these services from general taxes.

A further change would be brought about by the scheme. The present zoning board, with its multiplicity of members, would be eliminated. A new board of appeal would be established with two members named by the provincial government and third chosen by the two appointees. In any discussion the majority decision would be binding and at any time a majority would represent a quorum.

The establishment of a local area must be made by a public meeting and a majority of participants must support the change to make it effective. It cannot be done without the approval of the participating landowners.

Weather Records Attract Weathermen Says Weatherman

By OBSERVER

July, as we have all felt has been a hot, bright, dry month and an examination of weather data supports the "feeling". The observer of meteorological data always enjoys records.

There were 405.6 hours of bright sunshine, an increase of 84.3 hours over the 45-year monthly average, and an increase of 28.2 hours over the previously recorded July high of 377.42 hours in 1931, at Saanich Experimental Station.

There was no precipitation during July, our last rain was on June 29. Previous years recording no July precipitation were 1922 and 1937. The 45-year average is 0.69 inches. Our wettest July was 2.86 inches in 1932.

Evaporation from a free water surface was 6.50 inches compared to the 12-year average of 4.85 inches. The daily evaporation was 0.2097 inches.

HIGHER MEAN

The monthly mean temperature was 66.7 degrees Fah. compared to the 45-year average of 62.5 degrees Fah.; this is an increase of 4.5 degrees above the monthly average, and 0.1 degree higher than the previous July monthly mean in 1928.

The mean maximum temperature was 77.8 degrees Fah. and the mean minimum 55.5 degrees Fah. compared to the long term averages of 71.6 degrees Fah. and 52.7 degrees Fah. respectively. The mean maximum temperature was the highest recorded on the farm in the 45 years, the previous high of 75.9 degrees Fah. being recorded in 1928.

The high temperature of 90.0 degrees Fah. was recorded on July 27, and the low of 49.5 degrees Fah. on July 1. The only previous July temperatures above 90 degrees Fah. recorded were in 1915 with 92.0 degrees Fah. and 1941 with 94.0 degrees Fah.

The relative humidity of 65.5 per cent was 6.6 per cent below the 12-year monthly average.

GOAT CLUB FETES LEADER AT PAVILION

Members of the Saanich 4-H Goat Club celebrated the 21st birthday of their assistant leader, Farren Cooper, by a surprise party which was held in the Saanich Experimental Farm Pavilion on the evening of July 24.

Guests included Miss E. Lidster, supervisor of 4-H Clubs for British Columbia; Miss Lidster's mother, parents of the club members, and representatives from the adult goat association. John Howe, the club's junior leader, acted as master of ceremonies.

The happy birthday with the singing of "Happy Birthday" to Farren. Next, John Howe called upon Rosie Smart to present Mrs. Cooper, Farren's mother, with a corsage, and Farren and Mr. Cooper each received a carnation buttonhole, so that all the Cooper family, who have done so much to help the club dur-

Following the games, the master of ceremonies asked Miss Lidster to present Farren with a 4-H Leader's button. Then he presented Farren with a gift from the club members—an auto rug for his truck. Next the club's refreshment convener, Mary Couling and Mary Lord, brought out a huge birthday cake which was made by Mary Lord's mother. It was decorated with 4-H emblem and

The continued use of some drugs called obsolete by new theories in medicine by the common people helped to preserve the knowledge of these drugs that sometimes became useful later as medical knowledge progressed.

One of the best examples of this is Cod Liver Oil. It first appeared in the 15th century to be used on wounds. In 1730 Norwegian fishermen and farmers found that it would cure rickets. In 1770 the English used it in the treatment of rheumatism. In 1837 it was discovered that there was iodine in cod liver oil and this was thought to be the reason for its value. Not until the discovery of vitamins was its true worth understood.

North Saanich Students Are Successful

Several North Saanich high school students gained full standing in the University entrance examinations, results of which were released recently by Dept. of Education. Those successful were: Marilyn L. Blow, Beulah Anne Eckert, Willie S. Eng, Amy Irene Hillis, Wallace C. Hobbs, Deanna G. Huntley, James B. McDonald, Evelyn M. North, Frances G. Robertson, Colin M. Ross.

Several students need one subject to complete their standings. The subject needed is indicated in parentheses: Gray Gordon Eaton (Fr. 20), Ronald C. Gardner (Eng. Lit. 40), Arthur W. Jordan (Eng. Lit. 40), Lohar W. Koppe (Eng. Lit. 40), William A. Lane (Auto. Mec. 91), Dennis A. Reading (Fr. 20).

ENIGMA

By D. FRANCES SAVILLE

How can we pay
For that strange part of us, which is not clay?
What—in our lives here—would you say, is real?
Food, of course. And more food.
Gold, and steel,
And wood; and wealth, and luxury.
Eat a meal
And plan another. Right. But is this all
We live for? What is life? A pull
To end it, and a cradle, to begin—
And nothing more?

When we were born,
Did we remember something, dimly? Did we know
A life before our birth? Does science show
What this brain is—this heart; they think, and feel?
There is no God, you say? You made the wheel
That turns the universe. Could you begin
To make one perfumed flower, from bread, or tin?
We can believe, you say, what we can see?
But, have we seen our brains? Let thinking be!
Faith is the door.

TIME FLIES

As these words are written, the calendar shows that a civilization has reached the month of August, 1958. It has been a hot summer—and a very fleeting one.

Earlier in the year certain specific promises were made on the hustings in this district. Hon. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., Canada's minister of national defence gave definite assurances that work on extending runways at Patricia Bay Airport would be started in the spring. Spring has now turned into summer—and to date not one shovel of dirt has been moved.

The minister, our representative in parliament, also promised that work at construction of the new federal government wharf for use of State of Washington Ferries in Sidney would be undertaken without delay. In any event, the wharf would be completed in ample time for use of the ferries when the new ferry season starts in March of next year. The Review knows nothing whatsoever about wharf construction. But some of our friends do. And they are exceedingly skeptical of the job, not yet started, being completed by the date promised.

Mr. Pearkes also promised that a major addition to Sidney's post office would be constructed. To be scrupulously fair, we must record that this work is well advanced and that mail service during the forthcoming fall and Christmas season should unquestionably be improved as a result. If we could see as much progress on the airport and wharf fronts, our cup would overflow with joy.

Meanwhile we are hearing little or nothing further concerning the provincial government's plans for a new ferry service to link the Peninsula with the mainland early next year. For if it's August on Mr. Pearkes' calendar, it must be August on Mr. Bennett's as well.

TELEPHONE SERVICE

While residents of the Sidney and Keating telephone exchange areas are anxiously awaiting the day when automatic telephones are installed, they are being currently invited to express an opinion on the manner in which the new era is to be launched.

Subscribers will be asked to complete and return by mail a ballot, setting out whether the householder seeks to continue on the same basis as today, restricted to free calls in the immediate area, or whether he will approve the incorporation of Sidney and Keating into the Victoria telephonic area.

The saving to any subscriber, if the narrower view were taken, will be small in the normal course of events, but the cost involved will only be materially more to those who use the phone for no purpose outside the exchange area.

The added convenience will be worth a few cents more to most subscribers. The biggest advantage of all is that once the area is incorporated into the Victoria exchange, the incidence of calls outside, which are at present not made at all, will skyrocket. Many will gain an added service rather than lose an extra cent.

The proposal represents progress and we cannot deplore that.

A SHORTCOMING

During the activities in Sidney recently, when an unprecedented number of travellers were stranded in the village, there arose a new aspect of civil defence which calls for the close concern of the provincial and federal governments in their embracing of civil defence.

The conditions in Sidney reached the point on one occasion where they threatened to become more than the community could handle. Chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings immediately called a state of emergency. That declaration constituted an interesting statement by the chairman of the council and very little else. It proved that the local authority has no jurisdiction over conditions in its own area.

The North Saanich civil defence organization, which also embraces the Village of Sidney, responded to the village declaration, but the provincial authorities were unmoved. In order to gain immediate sanction and thus co-operation of the higher authority the declaration had to come from Victoria.

This is an absurdity. The Civil Defence Act should be written in such a manner as to provide for the declaration of a state of emergency on the spot. If a real emergency arose it might be over before the local authority could notify the provincial government, give that government time to confer with the federal government, reach a decision, hand it on to the local civil defence officer and act on the original declaration. It is a power which should be vested in the local council and must be if civil defence is destined to fulfill its purpose.

Letters To The Editor

CIVIL DEFENCE

Editor, Review,
Sir:

Now that the excitement and stimulus of our local emergency "Good Neighbor" in Sidney is over I would like to publicly extend to "SANSCHIA" the thanks and admiration of Civil Defence for a big job well done.

There are certain points worthy of comment from which we in Civil Defence and, I hope, the entire population of North Saanich, can learn. My remarks will be based entirely on C.D.'s part in this operation as all other aspects have been well covered in the press.

Of prime importance, Sidney was able to handle an "evacuee" population of over 1,000 able-bodied persons complete with transportation in a 24-hour period. This was done on the spot with a matter of only two hours' warning and no prior organization designed primarily for this purpose. The establishment of such a competent organization has long been the basic concept of Civil Defence in this area.

I, as Civil Defence Officer for this

An Act Of God

(Comox District Free Press)

"Nothing short of an act of God should be permitted to disrupt the ferry service between Vancouver Island and the mainland," states a telegram to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker from the city of Port Alberni.

And we think, by the same token, that the Island should not have to wait for an act of God to ensure that service is maintained. Furthermore we think the dominion and provincial governments should co-operate to see that we Islanders are never faced with the threat of disrupted service in the future.

It is nonsensical that the two governments should be acting separately on this matter. The provincial government has control over one ferry line but not the other.

Now Mr. Bennett announces that the government will start a ferry line.

Frankly it doesn't sound a practical suggestion when we consider the points between which the ferries would run; considering too the fact that in addition to the ferry fare there would be bridge and tunnel tolls involved.

What business will Mr. Bennett's line do when both Black Ball and CPR are running again? The CPR have shown the Victoria-Vancouver run is impractical and the public has shown it doesn't want it.

Can he be sure his ferryman won't strike along with others?

Nanaimo to Vancouver is the logical ferry run and efforts should be concentrated on making sure this line is never closed. Why spend public money to subsidize a third line? The ferry service is vital to the Island.

Vital enough, we think, for strikes and lockouts to be outlawed and that any dispute between company and employees should go immediately to compulsory arbitration without disruption of service.

And if necessary the dominion government should be prepared to let the navy man the ferries to ensure no curtailment of service.

But perhaps it isn't important to us.

Port Alberni has sent a telegram, but how many other cities have done the same? And how many individuals have contacted their M.P.s?

Let the telegrams and letters be sent to the M.P.s and the government by the thousands. Enough noise from the man who casts the ballots and the government might listen.

An emergency committee, such as SANSCHIA is now planning, is a necessity in every community in Canada today. Reliance should not have to be placed on random voluntary assistance from isolated groups, no matter how efficient. You have a nation-wide organization backed by the full authority and resources of our province and Dominion to do this job, but we must have the man and woman power registered with us locally to do it.

Civil Defence is your skeleton framework. Let's put some meat on it!

G. M. OWEN,
Sidney and North Saanich Civil Defence Officer.

THANKS FOR HELP

Editor, Review,
Sir:

On August 2 at 2.30 p.m., a bush fire was started on Wains Road, presumably by the careless tossing of a cigarette butt by some irresponsible person. Very serious damage was only averted by the prompt action of the Sidney Volunteer Fire Department, Central Saanich Fire Department, B.C. Forestry, Langford, and many hands from far and near who were willing to assist.

Particularly noticeable was the able and efficient service given by Fire Chief Art Gardner, whose organizing and controlling was the major factor in extinguishing the fire.

We would like to make a special mention of the teen-agers who turn-out in full force and worked so tirelessly, putting in long hours willingly, thereby proving their true worth as good citizens in a time of crisis.

Our very grateful thanks go to one and all, as the fire could very easily have been disastrous for us, had it not been for the prompt action of the fire department and the men who turned up so quickly to help.

Once again, thank you, all.

MAYNE FAIR

Editor, Review,
Sir,

Perhaps the writer is wasting your time. Perhaps your readers already have their copy of the Mayne Island Fair schedule, and have already decided the classes in which they intend to enter, and will have their exhibits down at the hall the evening before the fair.

Perhaps not.

To whichever class they belong, it is to be hoped that they will consider this worth while reading. To those on the production end a Fair Fair entails lots of work, many unpaid hours of labor for the satisfaction of providing an afternoon's enjoyment for fellow residents on these Gulf Islands. Regardless of the work done on the production and organizing end, a fair cannot be a fair, unless residents decide they will give those who are organizing this fair a helping hand. This can be done in two relatively easy ways.

The first is to be there in person, and tickets for the fair are already on sale in most localities. The tickets are a humble quarter, and for this small coin, in addition to the fair itself, you have a chance on three quite good door prizes, plus grocery cartons, which will be given on the afternoon of the fair. The wheel of fortune may be turning in your way, but, should the fates not be kind to you personally, a visit to the Fair is in itself well worth while.

The second is to exhibit, for without exhibits, even the most ingenious committee cannot make a Fair. Well do we know that vegetables and flowers will be in very short supply for the Fair. I survey my own burnt-out pastures and meadows as I write. However, it is an excellent year for tree fruit, and surely I have seen some gardens that have not been too badly hit by the recent blaze of sunshine. Furthermore, there are other sections to the Fair that are in no sense dependent on the weather. This part of the appeal is particularly addressed to the ladies. If they cannot grow, they can sew. This Fair has been in the habit of looking for, and getting, upwards of 500 entries. Whilst we like to see all classes well represented, we hope that what is lacking in classes that are dependent on weather will be more than made up in classes where weather has no effect.

The Fair is still in the making. There are almost certain to be a number of interesting exhibitions. One of these will be furnished by the Sidney Lapidary Club. This exhibition of cut stones is very fine, and some of this work is being donated for raffling. It is also fairly certain that there will be an exhibition of sheep dogs at work by Mr. Evans, of Ganges. Two more very interesting things are in the planning stage, but at this moment details are not finally worked out. However, another article nearer the Fair will give the final list of attractions. You can rely on most of the old favorites, plus some new things to pass the afternoon pleasantly.

Secretary-Treasurer,
Mayne Island Horticultural Society.

THE BATTERY HEN

Editor, Review,
Sir:

The chicken from the battery looked out with woeful eyes. It saw the latest hattery. And heard the social flattery. No Christian heard its sighs.

It watched the people lining up To fetch their drink and food; It did not seem to understand A social smorgasbord.

It saw the people eat and drink, It heard their laughter gay. A puzzlement was in its eyes— And then it turned away.

It plucked a feather from its breast And waved it at the throng; It tried to beat its scrawny chest And sing a little song; But there was just a single guest Got up and came along.

She came and stood outside the cage, Her voice was soft and low: "No Christian should treat you thus, They should not treat you so. And surely Nature planned that you'd Be free to come and go?"

"It is not that," the chicken said, "That puzzles my poor brain. I'm philosophic after all— My loss is people's gain.

"The Christians you scorn so much— Well—how are they to ken? They take their teaching from a Book Compiled by ancient men In an age before the advent Of the poor old battery hen.

"And though you know—I do not know Just what is nature's plan; It's hard to say what's right and wrong For bird and beast and man." It paused and scratched its head and then Its eyes fell on the pan.

MORE ABOUT FIRES

fought and reported by R.C.M.P. at Towner Park.

The truck which was thus despatched to Central Saanich and then deflected had been standing by at Wains Crossroad. Shortly after its departure a second truck blew a tire at the North Saanich fire.

ALL READY

Fire Chief Gardner was engaged in clearing up from the fire until the early hours of the morning. Nevertheless, by 10 a.m., the trucks were all lined up again with tires and hoses complete.

Standing watch over the Wains Crossroad fire, which was adjacent to the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Marshall, was the forestry crew under the direction of Watson Smith.

An almost uneventful Sunday was followed by a later evening call to the Wains Crossroad area again, when a minor fire was extinguished without incident.

It took a peck of grain, it took A drink from out the trough; It took another peck of grain And gave a little cough.

It raised its head and once again Looked at the smorgasbord. It shrugged its wings and clicked its beak, Said: "You misunderstood; The thing I want to ask you is— Why line up for your food?"

AUDIENCE APPLAUDS SHOW

By D. Leedham Hobbs

There is something about a packed house that sets the scene for an evening's enjoyment, and such was the case on Tuesday last, when I had the pleasure of seeing "My Fur Lady," about which I had heard, since it was staged in Montreal by McGill graduates around Christmas.

All I can say is, I chuckled and laughed and guffawed with the same abandon that affected all around me. Never have I had such an evening! I was left with a feeling of delight in belonging to a country—a great big wonderful country—a absolutely full of young men and girls overflowing with vital energy.

EXQUISITE LEGS

The acrobatic dancers, the antics of the cheer leader for "good ole McGill," the woman Mountie with the exquisite legs, the fun and frolic of it all, left one completely breathless.

The cleverness of it all was astounding. There was an audience including Canadian, English, American and many visitors from other parts, all drinking in with enjoyment the quips and cracks, the jokes and allusions, the complete farcical satire on Canadians and Canada.

EXPLANATION

From the moment when the reporter for True Canadian Remances magazine tries to explain Canada to the Eskimo princess, Princess Aurora Borealis, ending up with "Canadians are so busy explaining to the British that they are not Americans, and to the Americans that they are not like the British, that they have no time to be Canadians," completed her puzzle.

The three members of the new Canada Council or Culturality Council brought down the house, as did the poetry lecture by the noted Canadian poet of the farm, Dylan Ladke.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION TOMATOES EARLY THIS YEAR

Records for early picking of outdoor tomatoes are undoubtedly being broken this year. In Experimental Farm plots the first picking was made on July 23, and from the number of fruits harvested from some of the earlier varieties this date could have been advanced a few days. The average planting date for the past 10 years has been May 17 and average date of picking on August 10. This year we were two days earlier in planting, but 18 days earlier in picking. The next earliest year in this 10-year period was 1951 when the first fruits were picked on July 30.

This early crop is maturing in perfect tomato weather. So far there is no sign of blossom end rot in the farm plots, but the possibility of its incidence should be guarded against by all gardeners. The soil

SPEECH FROM THRONE

The charming Governor General kept his dignity through it all, and the Speech from the Throne was a masterpiece especially in his unashamed English French.

Few of our idiosyncracies were left inviolate, and all suffered at the hands of this brilliant group of men and women.

WILD CONFUSION

Dances and ballets which had all the appearance of wild confusion were so beautifully timed that there was never a collision, never a false step, and when scenes of early Canadian history were illustrated by such characters as Jacques Cartier trying to plant the flag of France on Canada's rocky shore, Laura Secord complete with lowering cow, (off stage), Wolfe paddling up the St. Lawrence and being shot, at the Show the Princess of Mukluoko something of Canada's background, the house literally shouted with laughter.

The delightful Eskimos Tufuk, Ruffuk and Hotlik, uncles of the Princess, were a delicious introduction to the entertainment.

is now very dry at a time when the crop requires a large amount of water to take care of the needs of the developing crop as well as replacement for that transpired through the leaves. The root system of the tomato is an extremely efficient mechanism for securing these water needs, but it cannot do the job in bone-dry soil.

The first evidence of the onset of blossom end rot is a water-soaked appearance of the end of the fruit opposite its point of attachment. This spot enlarges, darkens to a brown or black, shrunk and somewhat leathery to the touch. In advanced cases the area is so enlarged and flattened that there is only half a fruit left, and it is completely spoiled for edible purposes.

Blossom end rot is not a disease in the usual sense of the word, but simply the result of the withdrawal of moisture from the blossom end of the fruit. While there are many factors which have a bearing on the incidence of this condition, the most common one in this area appears to be a simple lack of water during the fruiting season. The condition is usually most severe when vigorous plant growth has been stimulated early in the season by generous fertilizing and heavy rains or watering. The easiest and quickest corrective is to remove affected fruits, and water immediately and thoroughly. A good indication that sufficient water has been applied is when moisture has penetrated into the soil to the depth of the blade tip of a shovel.

MATURITY OF FRUITS

Each year at this time, we are asked these questions, "When should I pick my apples?" or "When should I pick my peaches?" These are not always easy questions to answer as some skill and practice is needed to judge the proper stage of maturity. This year is particularly difficult as everything is about two weeks earlier than normal.

Several points that will help answer the questions are discussed here but no one criterion is adequate for final judgment. A minor point is aroma. Certain fruits such as grapes develop a characteristic aroma when ripe which will help select the proper stage. Taste is an important test but not always correct. Early apples can be picked when they taste ripe but late apples must be picked before this stage and stored until eating ripe. Pears are the best example of this as they must be picked before they change from green to yellow—just at the turning stage. Size is a helpful index. This is particularly useful in peaches where the "final swell" even up the two halves of the peach and it takes on a plump ripe shape.

Strange as it may seem the time interval between full bloom and harvest date is relatively constant and not affected too much by season. Complicated formulae have been worked out which take temperature into account and these are more accurate, but for the home gardener a record of the interval each year will be a great help.

Color is probably the prime indication of maturity particularly as many fruits are sold or graded on a color basis. The change in ground color or under color of the fruit is the best general maturity guide. The change from green to yellow or yellow-green in apples, pears and peaches is characteristic and with some practice is very reliable. Over color is too often used as a reliable guide and red apples are often picked too unripe. Seed color is sometimes helpful but the appearance of a brown seed must be considered with other factors as some varieties develop brown seeds before they are picking ripe and others much later.

Some help can be obtained from

INCENDIARY, JUNIOR SIZE

Matches and cigarette lighters should be kept out of reach of young children. It isn't difficult for small hands to operate a lighter or strike matches that set fire to clothing or anything else that is handy. Children should be taught early in life that they must not touch matches, but the best form of protection is prevention by keeping such dangerous objects out of their reach.

the ease of picking from the branch but other factors than maturity can influence this. Pressure tests by means of a mechanical tester are used for some fruits such as pears and from this test a reliable indication of maturity can be reached.

As can be seen from the above discussion no single index is accurate but a combination of tests is necessary. With careful observation and some experience good success with judging maturity will be achieved and better tasting fruit will be the result.

PICKLING CUCUMBERS

Pickling cucumbers are quite easily grown in the average garden, but are frequently overlooked when planting time comes around. When cucumbers are desired specifically for pickling, it is advisable to select a pickling variety. These are smaller, somewhat thicker and rougher on the surface, usually lighter in color, earlier and more productive than the slicing varieties. Furthermore, they are usually black spined, rather than white like slicing varieties.

In harvesting pickling cucumbers, the main consideration is the type of pickle desired. If the cucumbers are to be made into small whole pickles, harvesting must be done every one to two days. If the interval is longer the cucumbers will become too large, and they will reach dill size in approximately four days.

If the cucumbers are for dills or chop pickles, a four-day interval between pickings is about right. At this interval, the greatest weight of pickling cucumbers is obtained, but the total number will be far below that for the shorter interval harvesting.

It is important to know that any cucumbers left on the vine to mature will drastically reduce the crop of pickle-size fruits. For that reason, be sure to take off every cucumber, even though there may be one or two which have become

LEGION SURPRISE PARTY HELD FOR MRS. VERA McNEILL

"One of the best groups of women I have ever worked with," said Mrs. Vera McNeill, when expressing her thanks at a surprise party held for her at the Mills Road Legion hall last week.

Mrs. McNeill, past president of the too large.

Where cucumbers for slicing are required, one or two plants of a slicing variety such as Marketor will produce ample fruits for the average family.

There have been a number of new varieties introduced in the last few years. Some have been bred for resistance to diseases, while others have been developed especially for desirable shape, color or yielding ability.

However, National Pickling still remains the standard variety for this area. This variety was introduced many years ago for the pickling trade because of its regular shape, desirable color, vigor and productivity.

Ladies' Auxiliary to Branch No. 37, Canadian Legion, has been a very active member in this group and in other community affairs. She was presented with a piece of luggage and many good wishes by president Mrs. F. J. Allen on behalf of the more than 25 members present at the party.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. McNeill and their two youngest children, Bruce and Laurel, left on the Anacortes ferry Saturday morning, enroute to Abbotsford, where they will make their home. Mr. McNeill is employed by the Department of Transport, and has been transferred to Abbotsford, where the airport is being enlarged.

STIFFENING CURTAINS

Some women prefer to use gum arabic instead of starch for curtains. If this is done, dissolve one ounce of gum arabic in 1/2 pint of boiling water, strain and bottle. Be sure to keep well corked. Use one teaspoon of the mixture to one pint of cold water. Dip the curtains in this, and then stretch.

Superb!

The roll of distinction anywhere... anytime... these flaky French crescents are sure to please the fussiest appetites. For finest results, when you bake at home, always depend on Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

FLAKY CROISSANTS

1. Scald 1 cup milk. Stir in 1 tsp. salt. 1 1/2 lbs. granulated sugar. Cool to lukewarm.
2. Measure into large bowl 1/2 cup lukewarm water. Stir in 1 tsp. granulated sugar. Sprinkle with contents of 1 envelope Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 mins. THEN stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, 2 cups once-sifted all-purpose flour and beat until smooth and elastic. Work in an additional 1 1/2 cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour.
3. Turn out on floured board; knead until elastic. Roll out dough into a 12 x 20" rectangle; spread with 1 cup firm butter. Fold 1/3 of dough crosswise over centre third; fold other third over top, making 3 layers. With open end toward you, roll and fold again. Wrap; refrigerate overnight. Next day, repeat rolling and folding steps twice; wrap and chill 1/2 hr.

4. Roll into a 12 x 20" rectangle; cut into 15-4" squares. Cut in half diagonally; roll up each triangle from long edge; tuck points under. Place on brown-paper-covered cookie sheets. Curve rolls to form crescents. Brush with mixture of 1 egg yolk and 2 tbs. milk. Cover. Let rise until double in bulk—about 1/2 hr. Bake in hot oven, 425° for 12 mins. Yield—2 1/2 doz.

Here are the

about exchanging your

3% wartime Victory Bonds

1. What is the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958?

It is an offer to replace all unmatured 3% wartime Victory Bonds with new 25-year 4½% Canada Conversion Bonds. (Other bonds of shorter term, bearing interest rates of 4¼%, 3¾% and 3% are also available.)

2. Why is the Government making this conversion offer?

In order to reorganize the national debt on a longer term basis and thus reduce the volume of Government refinancing over the next few years. There is widespread public and business agreement that this is a sensible idea and will help protect the soundness of the Canadian dollar.

3. What interest will I receive on the new bonds?

On the 25-year bonds the interest rate is 4½% — this is 50% greater than the old Victory Bond rate. The increase on the 14-year and the 7-year bonds is also substantial.

4. As a Victory Bond holder, will I be required to make any additional payment?

No. On the contrary, you will receive an immediate cash adjustment.

5. Do I have to convert my Victory Bonds?

You may, if you wish, hold your Victory Bonds until maturity and on the due date you will be paid their full face value. The Conversion Loan offer is open only to Victory Bond holders; and the "right" to convert gives Victory Bonds a special value until the offer expires. This is because there are many people trying to buy them in order to invest in the new bonds.

6. What will be the total of my cash adjustment?

It will depend on the type of exchange. For example, a $500 8th Victory Bond exchanged for a $500 Conversion Bond paying 4½% will give you $8.75 in cash immediately. This includes earned interest.

7. Does this offer apply to Canada Savings Bonds and other Government of Canada Bonds?

No. This offer is limited to unmatured wartime Victory Loan Bonds only.

8. What steps should I take if I am away from home on vacation and wish to take advantage of this offer?

You should write immediately to your bank, investment dealer, stockbroker, trust or loan company, requesting literature and application forms.

9. Does it matter that the Victory Bond I hold is very small?

Every holder of a Victory Bond, even though the amount held may be only $50, should take advantage of this offer. It is in his best interests as well as in the best interests of Canada.

10. How long is this offer open?

Until September 15, 1958, but it is to your advantage to convert as quickly as possible and have the benefit of the immediate cash adjustment.

11. Where can I exchange my Victory Bonds?

At any bank, investment dealer, trust or loan company, or through your stockbroker.

False Report Brings Many Into Action

False report of a fire on James Island, coupled with the fact that telephone communication with the island was cut off, caused widespread confusion last Thursday afternoon.

A passing navy ship, apparently spotting a regular burning operation on the island, flashed a message to the Langford forestry station, reporting a fire. Unable to phone to the island, because service was temporarily disconnected through repair work being done on the lines, officials at Langford called the Sidney Volunteer Fire Department, requesting help.

FIREMEN INVESTIGATE
Sidney firemen Robert Jones and Dudley Harvey, unable to see any evidence of a fire which would be beyond the control of James Island crews, and unwilling to unnecessarily send equipment out of the district, went by car to Saanichton wharf, where the operator of the James Island boat told them he had not heard of any blaze.

Meanwhile Arthur Grossi, another member of the Sidney brigade, had engaged the services of a member of the Victoria Flying Club, and made a flight over the island which disclosed no evidence of a fire.

The report was finally proven false by the crew of a forestry department boat which was despatched from Ganges to James Island.

Three Ships Came In Jubilee Year

Cmdr. F. B. Leigh, former chairman of the Sidney and North Saanich War Memorial Park board, has objected to statements made regarding navy participation in Sidney Day celebrations.

"In 1951, during Sidney's 60th anniversary celebrations, the navy sent three ships," Cmdr. Leigh stated. "Naturally, with their homes and families in Victoria, many of the men went to the city. But it is not true to say that they have never participated when asked to do so."

Norman Wright, chairman of SANSCHA Sidney Day committee, had commented that despite repeated efforts to have the navy represented on Sidney Day, his committee had never been able to get a contingent for the parade.

Rhoda Jackson Married At St. Andrew's Ceremony

On Friday evening, July 25, St. Andrew's Anglican church, Sidney, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Rev. Roy Melville, assisted by the groom's nephews, Charles and Billy Waring, as servers, performed a double-ring ceremony for Rhoda Mabel Jackson, of Sidney, and Frederick Robert Reed, Victoria, formerly of Sidney.

The petite bride entered the church on the arm of her godfather, E. W. Cowell, and was lovely in a white waltz-length gown of nylon tulle over taffeta, with lace yoke and chapel veil, and carried a bouquet of white and red roses.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Deanna Geise and Miss Joan Puckett were bridesmaids. Miss Geise was gowned in a fuschia-flowered, trapeze gown with white hat, and carried a bouquet of roses while Miss Puckett wore a blue sheer waltz-length dress, white hat, and carried a bouquet of roses.

Janet Waring, niece of the groom, was flower girl, in yellow organza dress and yellow headress, carrying bouquet of roses.

Norman Simpson attended the groom, and Lawrence Reed, brother of the groom, acted as usher. During the signing of the register, Miss Geise sang "Be Thou With Me," accompanied by F. Strachan at the organ.

RECEPTION

Receiving the guests with the bride and groom was the bride's god-mother, Mrs. E. W. Cowell, at a reception in the K. of P. hall, which was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth centred by a three-tiered cake, flanked by tapers and flowers.

E. W. Cowell proposed the toast to the bride, which was suitably replied to by the groom. Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Tommy Scott's Orchestra from Victoria.

For going away Mrs. Reed donned a blue suit with white accessories. The happy couple will reside in Victoria.

MORE ACCOMMODATION

Operators of motels, commercial campsites and trailer camps in British Columbia have added 500 new rental units to the province's tourist accommodation facilities since the beginning of this year, Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood has announced.

STRING BEANS

It is claimed that string beans will cook in one-half the usual time if they are cut lengthwise, instead of broken in the customary manner.

THE GULF ISLANDS

FROM SOUTH PENDER

SATURNA

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Philips with their four children, from Victoria, will holiday at the Bavis summer cottage at Narvaez Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bavis are at their cottage at Narvaez Bay. Mrs. Don Bellamy and Barbara are visitors in Victoria.

Miss Yolande and Lyndon Villars are returning to South Burnaby from Shangri la, where they were summer guests of Mrs. R. Villars-Kay.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Villars were week-end guests at Shangri la, going on to James Island for a week, where they will plane home to Burnaby, accompanied by Master Rory Villars.

Saturday, July 26, was the night scheduled for a lively time of dancing and games. Visitors from other islands came over to swell the proceedings and with the "Warlow Music" made a memorable night of it. Specialty dances by the Charlstonians, who came over in make-up and gowns from Samuel Island, and some lovely singing by Marie-Jean MacArthur was greatly appreciated. Refreshments were served by the committee and the whole endeavor was voted "tops".

Guests at Cairn Brae include Mrs. C. H. Southron with Carole and Gloria, and Miss Lynn Harding, all from Victoria.

Barrie Crooks is a guest of Billy Money, while Miss Linda Crooks is at the Don Bellamys. Both are former residents of Saturna.

Mrs. Pillsbury and Lucinda are in residence at Saturna Beach.

Visiting her old stamping ground. Mrs. Maurice Litterer returning from a trip to Calgary Stampede has brought as her guest Mrs. P. MacMurdo.

Jeff Howland paid Saturna a short visit to Cairn Brae and while here showed the teenagers the intricacies of water-skiing.

Mrs. Duncan of Lyall Harbour, is taking a complete rest-cure at a Victoria hospital.

Mrs. Vernon Villars is the house guest of Mrs. Ruby Kay at Shangri la and on her return to South Burnaby will be accompanied by Rory and Lyndon Villars.

Mr. and Mrs. Harwood are at their bungalow at Random Acres for awhile.

SOUTH PENDER

Mrs. F. X. Hodson of West Vancouver stopped in to see Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pritchard. Mrs. Hodson and her late husband owned the store from 1935 to 1942 when Mr. Hodson's health forced them to leave.

Mrs. Hodson has taken part in concerts in Washington and British Columbia and her singing has given pleasure to many audiences. She has been organist in a West Vancouver church for over four years. Mrs. Hodson is the guest of Mrs. F. A. (Constance) Kelly of "Pea-nut", The Canal. Penderites welcome Mrs. Kelly back to her summer home. Gulf Islanders are among the many who enjoy the products of her artistic loom.

From Vancouver to spend the week-end with Sybil Conery at "Little Splash" came Jennifer Axtons, Ella Marshall and Ruth Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jeune, Victoria, are holidaying at Beach Cottage, the Wharf. With them are their daughter, Ila, and son-in-law, Allan Clegg, with Paul, 5, and Arlene, 2½. The Cleggs live aboard the E. A. Pykes, Victoria, on a fishing trip aboard Daisy D. . . W. D. Hewlett and Maidie Hewlett, New Westminster, with Jean and Harry Glanville and Mr. Boxer Dog (sic) on their 34 foot. cruiser Seacomber . . . Bill Holt and family, Seattle, in Thisist, 26½ foot cruiser, " . . . a wonderful time, and enjoying Canada's weather and hospitality" . . . Dr. Donald M. McElroy and wife, Seattle; Daniel Hewlett, Tacoma, and Mrs. Lila Lenz on the beautiful 35 foot Chris-Craft yacht, Blue Baby.

A Bremerton couple with Irish fore bears, the Ralph McCotters, were distinguished visitors in the Sea Spray, a 30 foot Owens Sedan cruiser. These glamorous yet domesticated craft are built by Owens in Baltimore, and shipped out by rail. The skipper is a mechanical engineer with the U. S. government and rates long holidays. The McCotters are spending a month exploring, including Johnstone Straits and Pender Harbor. They got to Princess Louisa Inlet, near Malibu, just after the Ann's Don blew up, when everything was a mass of debris. After hitting a reef, which holed her, the owner beached his unlucky craft, but in so doing, damaged the gas tank. After the party left, four tug men came to help and the boat blew to bits in their faces.

At the float, Ralph Jr., 4, was having a siesta, while Patricia, 3, wearing the sack look, in floats, kept close to mother. Mrs. McCotter, with a Hawaiian-type tan, and exotic swim suit, was soaking up the sun. Last summer the McCotters spent a week cruising the Gulf Islands. Vaya con Dios, amigos!

Explorers from the Marjean were J. V. Clynne, chairman, board of directors, MacMillan and Bloedel, and Mrs. Clynne; and Trade Commissioner for Britain, Sir Saville Garner and Lady Garner. Three summers ago the Clynnes, Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, spent several days in Bedwell, and this trip popped in again to say hello to the Pritchards. The H.R. MacMillan yacht is a converted Fairmile, named after his daughters Marion Lecky and Jean Southern. The Marjean gets around, and when not anchored in Bedwell may turn up the Galapagos, or riding in a blistering blue bahia, palm-fringed, off Acapulco, Mexico's prize Pacific play port.

Boundary Pass has purred all week with naval engines as ships returned from the Vancouver visit. The amphibious force flagship U.S.S. Estes, a sight "that never was on sea or land," its superstructure sprouting surprises, made its lonely way.

The Ilan, a 30-foot cabin cruiser, converted from a 50-year-old naval steam pinnace. The Cleggs' home is in Saanich. They are accompanied by S. F. Bobbett of Metchoshin, part-owner of the boat. Bobbett and Clegg have been cruising with headquarters at Bedwell for the past 12 years. Previous camping was done with a 16-foot open boat, Siwash, a tent and sleepingbags, headquarters, Peter's Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bellhouse, from Langford, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bellhouse's sister, Mrs. H. Spalding, and Mr. Spalding.

McElroy and wife, Seattle; Daniel Hewlett, Tacoma, and Mrs. Lila Lenz on the beautiful 35 foot Chris-Craft yacht, Blue Baby.

All but four of South, Pender's 16 homes see Boundary Pass, as do all eight summer cabins. The Beaties spot something unusual rounding Turn Point and phone the Freemans, who call the Jennens and Spaldings; Craddock's and Conerys picking it up en route.

Joe Winslip on the Kloshe bluff, with the view to end all views, blasts a whistle through his fingers. The wind is right, and Henri Renaud, tinkering with his boat, catches the signal and gives a yell. With a whoop and a holler, clutching fieldglasses, alerting each other as they go, the cabiners tear out of the bush, onto the rocks and points.

Something good is seen rounding Monarch Head, and the process goes into reverse. Herb Spalding or Claude Conery hustles to crank the phone. "Oronsay" coming up! or "The Nippon Maru!"

A royal visitor was the Queen Mary: a cruiser, 23 feet, she was built by Skipper Bob Strauss and his father, of Yakima, Wash.

Why Queen Mary? "Mary, after me," explained Mrs. Strauss, "and it seemed like the Queen Mary by the time they had built her!" The Strauses, after 10 days among the Gulf Islands, move on to Princess Louise Inlet. Jane, seven, and Sarah, four, managed to look dainty in the lifejackets they wear from dawn to dark.

SeaLeave II is Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Powell's 30-foot cabin cruiser built at McKay-Cormack Shipyards. The Powells belong to the Capital City Yacht Club and are holidaying among the islands. Echo-Vall, named for "Echo Valley Farm", Mr. and Mrs. Arch Abbott's Prospect Lake home, an 18-foot Brandyman cabin cruiser also anchors at the C.C.Y.C. The Abbotts are on a fortnight's holiday.

Registering at the store: George Stoner, crew and family, and Dean Crystal of the Blue Spray, 45-foot cruiser, from Mercer Id., Wn. " . . . Enjoying the Canadian islands and blue skies and water" . . .

James Munro, skipper, 25-foot ketch Lady Eve, Bainbridge Id., with wife, Caroline. "We are 10 days out. Have been to Nanaimo, Pirate Cove, Telegraph Harbor, Ganges, Saturna, Clam Bay, North Pender and way points—lots of swimming" . . .

Skipper Gordon Munro and wife, Marjorie, brother George and wife Lizzy, visiting the same ports as Lady Eve, in 30-foot sloop Morning-light, Poulsbo, Wash., the George Munros being from Bremerton.

S. L. Jonas with wife, Connie, and Trent, Carole and Brian in Sea Jay II, three days out and spending two weeks in the Gulf Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and Rosalie in their Fine-Craft 18-foot cruiser Rock 'N Roll, spending several days in Bedwell. From Everett, Wash., they fly the U.S. Power Squadron flag whose slogan is "Safety Afloat".

From Victoria: Skipper David F. Ward, Mate Robert, Deckhands Stirling and Ross on the Roman; six days cruising through San Juan Narrows, Tent Id. (excellent swimming), Telegraph Harbor, Montague, Boat Cove, Bedwell and home to Tod Inlet. "Wonderful holiday". Don Corbett with Mate Win Corbett in their Skagit Fiberglass cruiser Window, C.C.Y.C., "both very much obliged to Mr. Pritchard for help in a jam".

From Vancouver: H. S. Clay, mother, Joyce, Cheryl, Brett, Mark and Wayne on the Arroway III. " . . . a very hospitable storekeeper South Pender host" . . . V. W. Crockett with First Mate Ethel and Deckhand Barbara on the 32-foot cruiser, Fitz-Us. . . John W. Wall, First Mate Bess, Second Mate Johnnie, Third Mate Gordie on their 35-foot cruiser, Sea Fun. "Good to be back in these waters".

If flowers are to be taken a distance they will keep fresh if some means are made to keep them at the ends of the blossoms are stuck into the crevices.

CHRISTENING AT ISLAND CHURCH FOR TWO BOYS

On Sunday, July 27, Rev. D. W. Elsted of Vancouver officiated at a christening in St. Margaret's church, Galiano Island.

The principals were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stevens.

Their oldest son, three years old, received the names William Thomas and had as his godparents Miss Laura Bell, Ross Brackett and Tom Lowery. Fredrick James were the names given their four-month-old son. His godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brackett and Tom Lowery.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bell, Retreat Cove. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. Stallybrass, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Brackett, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevens, Mrs. A. Tschaikowsky, Miss Laura Bell, Tom Lowery, John Bell, Gregg Bell, Miss Bonnie Brackett and Rickie, Lyle and Mark Garner.

GARDEN FETE AT GANGES RAISES $600 FOR ISLAND ANGLICAN CHURCH FUNDS

Annual Anglican garden fete held at Harbour House Hotel, July 30, was again a social and financial success, raising over $600 for church funds, through the combined efforts of all the Anglican church organizations.

Ven. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes spoke to the guests, saying that W. F. Matthews, M.P., had promised to open the fete if it were possible, but with parliament still in session Mr. Matthews had written his regrets that he was unable to attend. Archdeacon Holmes asked Lt.-Col. D. G. Crofton, who had done so much for the fete, allowing the use of the attractive grounds each year, to open the affair, and this was preceded by a little ceremony honoring Captain V. C. Best.

Captain Best recently retired as tennis coach, after training Salt Spring youths for many years, and on behalf of his pupils and ex-pupils Col. Crofton made a presentation to him. Captain Best, in replying, said that looking back over the years he had as much enjoyment out of tennis as his friends and had also made many friends.

EXAMPLE
In opening the fete Col. Crofton remarked on seeing so many members of all Salt Spring Island churches present, and that the harmony and co-operation was a shining example for others to follow.

He thanked all those who had worked for months preparing for the gala event, and especially all the men who had worked so hard setting up the stalls.

Colorful flags were strung about the lovely lawns and trees, and the many stalls, contests, and games made for a gay atmosphere. Pleasing background music was supplied by A. D. Dane.

Mrs. C. W. Leggett and Mrs. J. Byron were conveners of a flower stall, and competitions for floral arrangements using fresh and dried flowers, and corsages. Judges were Mrs. Mayo Jones and Mrs. W. Levevre. Mrs. Scot Clark won both first and second prize for fresh flowers.

Winners in dried flower class, 1, Mrs. J. de Macedo; 2, Mrs. E. Worthington. Mrs. E. Rothwell won in the corsage class.

STALLS
The Anglican Evening Circle attracted a crowd at their delicatessen stall in the charge of Mrs. J. F. Proctor, assisted by Mrs. L. P. Hawksworth. Mrs. L. P. Hawksworth, Mrs. I. Williams, and Mrs. W. Woods. Soft drinks were sold by Misses Marilyn Haggie and Marilyn Parsons. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. H. Carter took charge of the surprise parcels. St. George's Altar Guild kept up a brisk business at the novelty stall, run by Mrs. G. Bullock and Miss June Mitchell. Rummage was sold by Mrs. J. Mitchell, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. J. Young. Garden produce was sold by Mrs. H. Price, Mrs. H. C. Giegerich and Mrs. C. Elliott. The Anglican W.A. needlework stall was in charge of Mrs. A. W. Barber, Mrs. E. Adams, Mrs. J. Surtees, Mrs. W. Norton and Mrs. E. Worthington.

Vesuvius Circle stall kept busy. Mrs. T. Carlyle, convener, and her helpers, Mrs. A. E. Duke, Miss M. Harrington, Mrs. G. Meyer and Mrs. Wells. Home cooking, for St. Mark's Guild, was arranged by Mrs. H. Deyell, assisted by Mrs. B. Cartwright, Mrs. L. Nicholson and Christopher Webster. David Parson, capably managed a nail driving contest, won by Robert Field and Tom McColm. Mr. S. Quinton had set up a popular dart game; Mrs. G. Woodyard and Mrs. D. Dean were in charge at Harbour House swimming pool; and Mrs. H. A. Robinson looked after the clock golf game.

TENNIS

During the afternoon an American tennis tournament was staged by Col. Crofton, who presented prizes to the following winners: Susan Graham and Harry Harwood; runner-up, Kay Devine and Art Putz. Consolation, Gaye Bunbury and Bob Pike.

Members of St. Mary's Guild arranged the attractive afternoon tea served in Harbour House. Convened by Miss Gladys Shaw, those assisting included Mrs. F. L. Jackson, Mrs. W. Y. Stewart, Mrs. A. E. SACK LOOK HAD ACCIDENTAL BEGINNING

With the "sack look" to the fore in fashions the past year, a letter appeared in the Reporter in England from Bob Curtis, who recently retired after 55 years in the tailoring business in London, Liverpool and St. Helen's.

Mr. Curtis wrote: "I have been very amused by the various advertisements for the so-called latest fashion, the 'sack look'. Some 60 years ago a famous English peer was out shooting when they were caught in a sudden rain storm. As he had no coat with him, the peer ran to the nearest farm and asked for a sack. He cut a hole in the bottom for his head and a hole on each side for his arms and returned to a highly delighted party. One of them remarked 'My word, Lord Raglan, you've started a new fashion—the sack coat!'"

And to this day, Mr. Curtis adds, it has remained a very popular style.

RECEIVES RARE COIN ON INAUGURAL ARCTIC FLIGHT

Mrs. Norman Walter of Ganges, who recently returned home after a trip to England, was the recipient of a rare Hudson's Bay coin and certificate when she had the good fortune to be on the inaugural flight of T.C.A.'s Hudson's Bay route, which left Vancouver on May 30. When Mrs. Walter left Ganges she had no idea that she would be one of the special few making the flight. She also received a personal note from the captain of the plane welcoming her on her first flight.

The certificate she received, signed by Captain E. E. Johnson and First Officer M. S. Rose, is printed on a copy of the original map of the Hudson's Bay area. Mrs. Walter remarked on the torn edges of sepia-toned map, on white mount, and was told that it was like that originally because there were no scissors then. The map shows such places as New France, New South Wales, Rupert's Bay and R. Canada. (Sic.).

LONGTIME USE

The coin is a "Made Beaver" token of One-Half denomination. The rare brass coin is 100 years old, and was used as a unit of currency by the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada's fur trade until about 1910. One side of the coin has the H.B.C. crest, while on the other side the die shows EM, for East Main district on the East mainland of Hudson's Bay, and NB which should have been MB for "Made Beaver", but was misinterpreted by the die-cutter. The coin is in a Hudson's Bay Company presentation case.

A little pamphlet about the company discloses some items of yesterday and today. Under Yesterday it shows that they ruled the whole of Canada west of the St. Lawrence watershed; operated the first chain store; made the North West passage; set aside 116,000 square miles for the Red River settlers; evolved the York boat; founded Winnipeg, Edmonton, Victoria, and others; explored the northern interior of B.C. through its officers, Samuel Black, John Bell, Robert Campbell, and others; explored and mapped much of the Canadian Arctic through its officers Dr. John Rae, Peter W. Dease, Thomas Simpson, and others; built Fort Yukon and traded in Alaska when that country was Russian; sent westward from Hudson's Bay, Henry Kelsey, who was the first white man on the Canadian prairies; sent Samuel Hearne north-west to be the first white man to reach the Arctic Ocean overland; operated posts as far south as San Francisco and as far west as Hawaii; and conducted the first experimental farm in Canada.

FLOAT PUMPED

The barge type float at Fernwood wharf had to be pumped out recently when it became filled with water and partially sunk. The hot dry weather had shrunk the top plank so much that the seas blowing up on it gradually filled it. This has happened before, and the department soon pumps it out and makes it safe again.

VAST INTERESTS

Today they are the oldest merchant trading company in the world, with a chain of over 30 stores and 200 fur trade posts. Aircraft and diesel-powered vessels are in their transportation system, and they have 97 private commercial radio stations as well as meteorological observing stations at the posts.

There are 26,042 square miles of beaver sanctuary leased from the province of Quebec, and 1,258 square miles in the North West Territories, also 303,000 acres of muskrat preserve leased from Saskatchewan. They are represented in the oil and gas business as well.

Wedding Here For Former Ganges Girl

A candlelight double-ring ceremony at St. Mark's church, Salt Spring Island last Friday evening, August 1, united in marriage Christina Gloag West, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Everett and the late George West, formerly of Salt Spring Island, and Norman Saul Anton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anton, Tucson, Arizona. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes officiated at the ceremony, and H. C. Noakes was soloist.

Given in marriage by W. F. Thorburn, the bride chose for her all-white wedding, an exquisite floor-length formal, sheath style gown of tulle and organza, designed especially for her by Cahill of California. The very full peacock train, attached at the waist, featured a tucked design, using 35 yards of material. Her chapel veil fell from a matching hat with tiny sheer orange blossoms and seed pearls. Full length organza gloves were worn and she carried a white Bible with an orchid, satin streamers and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Thelma Davies, matron of honor, and Misses Wendy Morris, Penny Trelford and Marcia Trimm, as bridesmaids, were gowned in street-length nylon taffeta sheath dresses, with gathered cummerbund and full back overskirts. Pixie Thorburn, junior bridesmaid, wore a full-skirted dress of similar material. Colonial bouquets of carnations in pink tones, centred with white tapers, were carried and they wore matching coronets in their hair.

OFFICIATING

Best man was Donald West, of Vancouver, brother of the bride, and ushering were Norman Mount and Alan Wilson.

A reception was held at the parish hall. Ganges, where the bridal toast was proposed by Gavin C. Mount. The bride's table was fronted by white baskets of gladioli and pink larkspur, and featured a three-tier wedding cake with double-ring top, flanked by pink tapers in silver holders. The reception table had a pink and white floral arrangement in a crystal bowl, with pink candles in matching holders.

Pouring tea were Mrs. W. F. Thorburn, Mrs. W. C. Trimm, Mrs. E. Adams and Mrs. J. M. Smith.

For a honeymoon motoring trip on Vancouver Island, the bride changed to a light beige, raw silk, two-piece dress with slim skirt and push-up sleeves. Chocolate brown hat and accessories completed the ensemble and she wore a white orchid corsage. The young couple will make their home in Tucson where they will both attend university.

SCHOOL IN TUCSON

The bride was born on Salt Spring Island and attended the school at Ganges for grades 1-10. She graduated from Catalina high school in Tucson, where she and her mother moved about two years ago. For the past year she has been doing professional modelling in Tucson for Flair Parisienne Agency, and teaching ballet dancing. She will be studying primary education at the University of Arizona this fall. Her groom is a national gymnastic champion of United States, chairman of A.A.U. for State of Arizona, and supervisor of gymnastics for Tucson.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. B. Anton, Tucson; Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams, Vancouver; Mrs. William Trimm and Miss Marsha Trimm, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. J. McCaughan, Vancouver; and Donald West, Vancouver.

MOTHS IN CLOSET

If the clothes closet is infested with moths, saturate a cloth with formaldehyde and hang it in the closet. Close the door tightly and leave for 12 hours. The fumes will kill the moths and their eggs and will leave no odor.

SIDNEY and KEATING

telephone subscribers

YOUR VOTE WILL DECIDE THE PLAN FOR FREE CALLING

between Sidney, Keating and Greater Victoria

In the next few days you will receive, through the mail, a ballot offering you the opportunity to vote on a plan to end toll charges on all calls between Sidney and Keating and Greater Victoria.

Under this plan Sidney and Keating subscribers would pay the same rates as Victoria telephone subscribers and all charges for telephone calls within these areas would be abolished. The new rates would not be charged until the new plan is in effect.

Before this plan can be put into effect, much engineering and preparatory work must be done. That is why a decision must be reached now.

Sidney and Keating will have automatic service regardless of the outcome of the vote, and this free-calling plan would be introduced at the same time as automatic service, early next year.

You have the choice between two forms of automatic service—a localized system, with inter-exchange calls between Sidney and Keating and Victoria placed through operators, and with a charge on each call, or a system of free inter-exchange calling through the entire Saanich Peninsula and Greater Victoria area.

The choice is yours!

Please read your ballot carefully, fill it in and mail it. As a Sidney or Keating telephone subscriber, it is important that you return your vote promptly for one or the other of these systems. YOU will be deciding the type of telephone service for your area for many years to come.

NOW IS THE TIME TO DECIDE!

WILDLIFE and FORESTS

FOREST FIRE LOSSES

Either fully or by carelessness, man has been responsible for over 80 per cent of all forest fires which on the average burn over a million and a half acres of land in Canada each year and result in losses measured in millions of dollars. We should do well to remember that not fire but the hand that sets the fire is the enemy of the forest.

The average annual loss from forest fires in Canada, including fire-fighting costs, is given as roughly five and a half million dollars. This does not cover all losses, as it is impossible to estimate in dollars and cents the loss of soil fertility from repeated burns, losses in scenic values, losses from fluctuation of stream flow and from soil erosion, losses to the fur trade, and many other losses directly traceable to forest fires.

FIRE DANGER

"Fire Danger" includes all the items which determine whether fires will start, spread and do damage, and how difficult they will be to control. Fire danger is influenced by factors such as fuel moisture, rainfall temperature, wind, isolation, altitude, slope and relative humidity (the amount of moisture held by air at a given temperature expressed as a percentage of the amount of moisture that would be contained by saturated air at that temperature). Fire danger also depends on the chances of ignition by lightning or human agencies. When fuels are dry, wind velocity high and relative humidity low, fire danger is high. During periods of high fire danger fire protection agencies are alerted and great care must be taken in the woods. When hazard becomes extreme it is necessary to close the forests to the public.

FOREST FIRES

During the last 10 years there have been more than 14,700 forest fires in British Columbia. Of this total 9,700 (65 per cent) were of the man-caused variety. Of this 9,700 a total of 4,500 were caused by campers and smokers! The amount of timber killed by forest fires each year would produce enough lumber to build 25,000 average homes.

Every acre of forest is an acre of wages.

PHILODENDRON

IT'S GROWING

It's surprising how the interest and love for certain things can bring folks into conversational confidences. I was shopping in Vancouver and as usual found myself amongst the plants and foliage. Also I was "digging" around the pots of philodendron, the lovely split-leaved variety.

I saw my first philodendron at the Lodge at Galiano, a beautiful specimen and very intriguing to me. I vowed inwardly that I must have one. My next trip being to Victoria, and "digging again" to find the price—I walked forth proudly with a gleeful air, clasping in my arms a philodendron.

Writing to Cecil Solly I got a Phamplet on the plants and now today, having given it attention worthy of a mother hen I find it

CHARGE BRINGS SUSPENSION

A driver who said he had had only "a few beers" and didn't realize he was impaired, pleaded guilty in Sidney police court last Monday to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his ability to do so was impaired by alcohol.

Ronald Wayne Roste, VU33 Squadron, Patricia Bay Airport, was supported by a senior officer, who informed the court that accused's record was good, and that he had had no previous trouble.

Roste was fined $150 and $10.50 costs, and his driver's license was suspended for 30 days.

EGGS

Eggs will not burst while boiling if one end of each egg is pricked with a needle before placing in the water. This makes an outlet for air and prevents the shell from cracking.

LEGION BRANCH PLANS NEW ZONE FOR EASE OF ACCESS

Saturna Island was the venue of the recent meeting of the Gulf Islands branch of the Canadian Legion. The attendance was a little lower than usual. One noticeable absentee was Comrade George Copeland, the branch's oldest member, aged 95 years, who has rarely missed a meeting for over 20 years, but, who, unfortunately, had to be away for the sole meeting to be held on his home island this year.

Discussion took place on the recent Dominion convention at Edmonton. Much of this concerned the status of the veteran under the new Federal-Provincial hospital scheme, and the status of the W.V.A. veteran. If the government carries out all the matters promised in the speech given by the Hon. A. J. Brooks, minister of veterans' affairs, the lot of the older veteran, and of the younger veteran in the event of illness from a non-service and non-pensionable cause, will be much better. In this convention, which will be included in the next Legion brief, which will, if accepted by the federal parliament, do away with a number of anomalies that still exist in the various acts which refer to the veteran.

Comrade Kay gave a very well-drawn picture of the last zone meeting at Duncan, the last at which this branch will be represented prior to the impending transfer from this zone. Sole reason for seceding is that of expense, as Duncan is a difficult place to reach from the Gulf Islands. In the new zone-to-be, much of this expense will be eliminated, and attendance should be more regular.

The next meeting, which will be also the annual general meeting,

TESTED ON MAINLAND

Apricots destined for the canning factory should be left on the tree until properly matured, tests made in British Columbia have shown.

To get the ultimate in quality, they should be immediately canned since they do not improve after picking.

These findings were outlined in a report from F. E. Atkinson, Canada Department of Agriculture's Experimental Farm at Summerland, B.C. Tilton apricots, he said, should be a light golden color, firm, and past the stage of showing any green.

Blenheim, a softer fruit, retains its shape well, has good color and a good flavor. It should be at least 90 per cent yellow, with any green limited to a little around the base and in the suture.

The Sungo apricot should be harvested in the same manner as the Blenheim.

Mr. Atkinson said that while the Wenatchee Moorpark is not a canning apricot, it is being accepted to make up tonnage because canning varieties are in short supply. It does not develop a good flavor until at least a golden color, but at this stage it begins to soften inside and, when processed, the skin will separate.

Thus it is difficult to work satisfactorily with this fruit. Fortunately there are other processing outlets for it.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When British Columbia Was Born

CHAPTER VII

Within the space of 28 years, British Columbia changed from the private wilderness preserve of a fur trading company to a boisterous new province.

Between 1843 and 1871 the Indians and traders made room for farmers and miners, soldiers and road builders.

Government by factor of the nearest fort gave way to a colonial government, then to a provincial and dominion government.

From a handful the population grew to 10,586. It's only a short time ago. If the reader is in his thirties, his grandfather could well have owned one of the noses counted that year.

British Columbia, by Confederation year, had the subsidizing industry, a small export trade in lumber, one or two whaling enterprises, sawmills grist mills, breweries and distilleries and a salmon cannery plant on the Fraser River. (Yes, as early as 1839 food was widely distributed in tin cans.)

In the same period, Esquimalt, long a haven of British men-of-war, was fitted as a naval base. The year, 1865.

Prior to 1843 the Pacific coast region had been familiar only to native Indians, a few maritime fur traders and the explorers who followed Mackenzie, Fraser and Thompson of the North West Company.

The North West Company had led the Hudson's Bay Company in the drive westward from Upper Canada. It absorbed its only opposition in the west, the XY Company and the Pacific Fur Company which held sway in the lower Columbia area. (To Be Continued) of a blanket at night was relayed from mouth to mouth among the prisoners the next day. A near calamity arose when a sudden search for the unit necessitated its destruction, but a replacement had already been prepared.

For his work in this connection T. A. Dineen, a volunteer no longer, received the British Empire Medal from the Governor of Malaya. He was jubilant when, later, it was announced that seven Japanese war leaders were sentenced to hang.

With the end of the war and a family reunion, the Dineens returned to Singapore, but like so many other places on the world map, it was not the same again. For a short period they enjoyed their residence in the Far East, but finally decided to leave. A sea voyage landed them in South Africa, where they settled in Johannesburg.

Building Nearly Unchanged

Building activities in North Saanich Regulated Area during the month of July were almost identical with those of July, 1957. During last month a total estimated $33,200 in construction was undertaken. The figure for July, 1957, stood at $33,600.

The figures, released by W. R. Cannon, building inspector for North Saanich Regulated Area, show that five permits for dwellings were taken out in each of the months in review.

Break down is, July, 1958: five permits for dwellings, valued at $20,500; 12 miscellaneous permits, valued at $12,700, total $33,200. July, 1957: five permits for dwellings at $26,800; six miscellaneous permits, $6,800, total $33,600.

Fire is Forest Enemy No. 1.

PATROLLED BY FOREST RANGERS

Forest patrol of Galiano, Mayne, Saturna, the Penders, Prevost, the small islands through Porlier Pass, and south to Princess Margaret Island is being carried out by boat by J. J. Martinich, of Pender Island. Shortage of forest rangers, due to the large number of fires ranging throughout the district, has called for the appointment of temporary rangers in some areas. Ranger Martinich will patrol the islands during daylight until the forest closure ban can be lifted.

Campers, picnickers, hikers and parties from pleasure craft are forbidden to land on the islands, except at regular government wharves. The islands are tinder dry, and residents and visitors alike are warned to exercise extreme caution. Pender residents were cheered with a quarter-inch rainfall in the early hours of Sunday morning, but much more is needed. Many wells are becoming alarmingly low, and some gardens are a total loss.

RATE GROUPS

The basic factors in determining rate changes are in accordance with a ruling of the Board of Transport Commissioners. Under the ruling, exchanges are placed in rate groups according to the number of telephones. In the case of "extended area service", or free calling as it is known, the number of telephones in the exchanges concerned are combined, to get the rate group to be applied.

In the case of Sidney and Keating, which are in groups three and two respectively, the combination with the Victoria area will put them in group eight. The increased number of telephones will not affect Victoria, which is already in group eight. (Free calling from Victoria to Keating and Sidney would go into effect, however.)

Thus, the rates to be charged in the "Saanich" exchange would be the same as those in the Victoria exchange at the present time. Instead of being able to call free to only 1,000 telephones (as in Keating) and 1,700 telephones (as in Sidney), subscribers would be able to call free to (and be called free by) about 60,000 telephones in the Greater Victoria area.

The increase for multi-party line residence subscribers in Keating would be 90 cents per month, from $2.30 per month to $3.20. For Sidney users, the increase would be 80 cents—from $2.40 to $3.20.

However, at the moment, Sidney users pay a minimum of 25 cents for a call to Victoria, while Keating subscribers pay at least 15 cents per call. There is also a charge, though smaller, on calls from these places to each other, and to Albion, Belmont and Colquitz. All these charges will be abolished if the plan is approved.

The forest is wildlife's board and lodging.

OF GENERAL FOODS KITCHENS

What could taste better on hot buttered toast than peach jam? Here's my very successful recipe.

PEACH JAM
4 cups prepared fruit
(about 2 quarts ripe peaches)
1 1/2 cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
1 1/2 cups (3/4 lbs.) sugar
1/2 bottle Certo fruit pectin

How to prepare fruit. Peel and pit about 2 quarts fully ripe peaches. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add 1/4 cup lemon juice.

How to make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in Certo to mix. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses. Cover at once with 1/4 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 11 medium glasses.

Pectin: What is it? Here's the answer! Pectin is the jelling substance found in all fruits in varying amounts. Certo is pectin extracted from fruits rich in this natural substance, then refined, concentrated and performance-controlled. Using Certo and following the tested Certo recipe, means your jam and jelly will always set right.

Preserving Pointer: Certain fruits, such as peaches, pears, apricots and apples darken easily while you're preparing them for preserving. To help keep their color, place the fruit in a bath of 1/2 tablespoon salt and 1/2 tablespoon of vinegar to 4 cups of water. Then rinse them in clear water before you pack them in jars. That way they'll look every bit as good as they taste!

More recipes—more hints. Watch for them! If you've had a problem with your jam or jelly making, drop me a line. I'd be glad to help. Bye for now.
